

Anglo Saxons

An aerial photograph of a winding asphalt road through rolling green hills. The sun is low in the sky, casting a warm, golden light over the landscape. The hills are covered in lush green grass, and the road curves through the valleys and over the ridges. The overall scene is peaceful and scenic.

WHO WHERE THEY?

They were a mix of tribes from Germany, Denmark and the Netherlands. The three biggest were the Angles, the Saxons and the Jutes. The land they settled in was 'Angle-land', or England.

HUNTING

Anglo-Saxon men were good hunters. Some used trained hawks to catch ducks, pigeons and other wild birds.

They also used dogs to track deer and wild boar. They had to keep an eye out for wolves, which still lived in Britain at the time.

FARMING

Farmers used oxen to plough their fields.

They planted crops like wheat, oats and barley. They also raised animals such as: pigs and sheep for food.

Cows and oxen were very valuable in Anglo-Saxon times and cow-stealing was a common crime. There are records of people tracking down stolen cows, like detectives!

ANGLO SAXON GIRLS

Anglo-Saxon girls
did lots of jobs
around the home
and farm.
They looked after animals, helped with cooking and cleaning and would fetch water from a nearby stream.

ANGLO SAXON BOYS

Anglo-Saxon boys were kept busy helping their families and working around the farm. They looked after animals and would collect firewood from nearby forests. When they had free time, they played with carved wooden toys like swords, spinning tops and ships. They also had board games with counters and dice.
